YOUTH WHO SAW SHOOTING STANDS UP FOR HIS MOTHER

Says Father Had No Cause for Jealousy---Will be State's Principal Witness.

Thirteen year old Bertrud Caswell, who saw his mother shot down and killed by his father at Plaistow, N. H., Saturday night, may be chief State's witness against his father if Caswell recovers from his own wounds and is brought to trial.

A constant guard is maintained over Caswell at the county farm at Drentwood because of his attempt, the authorities claim, to reopen his wounds while on his way to the hospital on Sunday. Fear is entertained that he may attempt to commendation is that the square might be converted to a palm garden. Another request is that a landscape artist be put to work on the lot at once to further beautify it for the summer. The most sensible appeal so far is the request that half of the ducks located there be dragged off for a Fourth July illumination on the dump.

MASSASOIT TRIBE HAS ROLL CALL

The roll call of the members of Massasoit Tribe, No. 16, I. O. R. M., was held on Monday evening and upwards of fifty members responded to their names, including eleven of the charter members of the tribe. During the evening Great Mischewa Chaucney B. Hoyt in behalf of the great council presented Past Sachem William McCallin with a Tatum badge, for securing five candidates during the term. Following the business session the chiefs and braves sat down to a repast of corn and venison arranged by a committee consisting of Chaucney B. Hoyt, Herbert A. Griffin, Charles E. Lewis and Ernest Frederickson. After the inner man had been satisfied, Sachem Herbert A. Griffin called on a number of the members of the tribe for remarks and the evening was pleasantly passed.

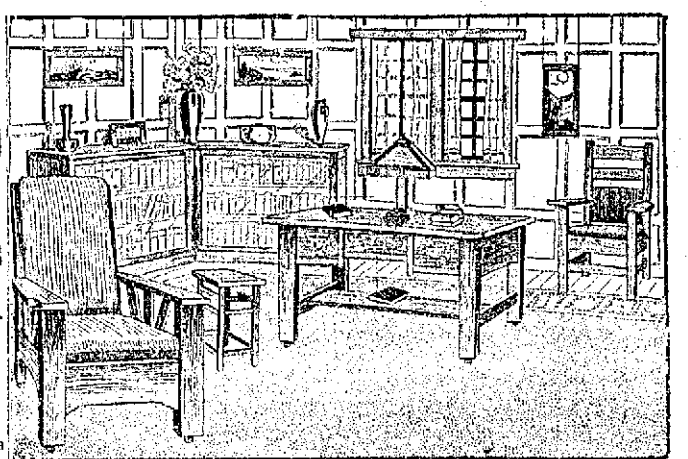

The charter members present were Ceylon Spinney, Eben H. Blaisdell, George B. Wallace, Chaucney B. Hoyt, W. Gay Smart, Francis R. Johnson, Major S. Langdon, J. Wallace Lear, Charles B. Bailey, Joseph Forsythe, William McCallin.

POLICE MAKE SUCCESSFUL EARLY MORNING RAID

James Moore and Occupants of His House on Jefferson Street Will Face Court This Afternoon.

Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, Police Officers Kelley, Ducker, Philbrick and Murphy, made an unexpected call at the home of John Moore, colored, on Jefferson street, where every occupant of the dwelling was waited to the police headquarters. The delegation comprised James Carey, Albee Carter, Nathaniel Johnson, Gladys Gray, Perry Chapman, Anna Davis, William Yates and James Springer. The male end of the arrest were mostly sailors.

The police were obliged to force their way in and were met by Yates and Springer with loaded revolvers. They made no attempt to fire and stated they had no idea it was the police who were pounding to get in. Outside of Moore, who was booked as conducting a disorderly house, the rest were charged with a statutory offense. Yates and Springer also were held for carrying concealed weapons. Moore appeared a year ago in the high court on the same charge. Judge Simms will hear the several cases in police court this afternoon.

Now Put Your Books in Globe-Wernicke Cases

Summer dust is a great destroyer of books. It slips in through the windows and cracks and settles in a fine grinding powder on the delicate white leaves of your favorite volumes.

This dust is laden with all the filth and germs of the street. It soils the edges and spoils the appearance of the books you want to keep.

Soiled books at best look badly and lose much of their charm.

Protect you with Globe-Wernicke cases, always closed tightly, always ready for use, a ways ready for more.

LOCAL FIRM GETS CONTRACT IN NEWMARKET

The firm of Marcella and Whitford of this city has been awarded the contract for the construction of a large sewer to practically cover the whole town of Newmarket. There were thirteen bids offered by firms from New York, Boston, Lawrence, Nashua, Brookline, Portland and other cities. All the bids ran close. The highest was offered by Casco & Co. of Boston for $24,400.

CELLAR OF OLD DWELLING IS FILLED IN

On Monday a crew of workmen laboring hard on the site where an old house was removed near the Vaughan street crossing, attracted many people, who stopped to inquire what it all meant, thinking perhaps the Boston and Maine railroad had begun the operations for the long talked of depot. They soon learned that there was nothing to it and the workmen were simply filling in the cellar of the old dwelling. Several suggestions have been offered to the railroad. One recent-

WILL CONFER THE FOURTH DEGREE ON 100 CANDIDATES

Grand Knight Thomas A. Henry of Portsmouth council, K. of C., announces that all local arrangements have been completed for the fourth degree assembly in this city on Memorial day. Mr. Henry, with Frank Pagan and Henry M. Flinn, who were delegated by the council to prepare for the conferring of the fourth degree members, have obtained the hall in which to exemplify the degree and have arranged for a banquet to conclude the impressive ceremony.

The degree will be exemplified beginning at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Freeman's hall. About 100 candidates will be initiated. John F. Crowley of Bangor, Me., master of the fourth degree assembly of Maine and New Hampshire, will be in charge. About 400 members of the assembly are expected to attend the meeting. Several special trains will be run into this city.

At the conclusion of the service the visiting members will be entertained at a banquet in the annex of Freeman's hall. Tanner of Haverhill, Mass., will enter. During the afternoon the members will find time to attend vesper service in the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The Rev. George Albert Gurtin, bishop of Manchester, has been invited to dignify the service, but Bishop Gurtin has declined because he will be in the north country at that time. An address will be delivered by a priest during the church service.

SUCCESS OF MT. WASHINGTON PLAN ASSURED

Concord, N. H., May 13.—It developed at a meeting today of the directors of the Concord and Montreal railroad that in case the proposed issue of stock to cover the $1,500,000 improvement plan for Mount Washington is not fully taken up by the stockholders of the Concord and Montreal wealthy outsiders have practically given assurance that any part of the whole of this sum will be forthcoming.

At the session this afternoon the plans were explained. It is understood that the working arrangement between the Boston and Maine and the Concord and Montreal made it necessary that the latter road should have charge of operations at Mt. Washington. Request for such action has been made by the Boston and Maine, which has also agreed to pay dividends upon the new capital stock.

It was the decision to lay the entire matter before the stockholders of the Concord and Montreal at the meeting which will be held here in June.

At this time a vote will be taken to see whether the proposed extensions and improvements will be authorized and whether they will raise the money necessary for construction. Work on the project will begin at once when the permission is given, and it is understood that the power plant will be the first thing to be constructed. Work on the line and hotel can proceed for only about three months in the year on account of the extreme rigor of the winters on the summit and slopes.

The structure will be built piece meal, the office and station first and the hotel proper later. It is the supposition that all will be completed by the season of 1914.

Stops en route in two minutes, toothache or pain of burn or scald in five minutes; hoarseness, one hour; muscleache, two hours; sore throat, twelve hours—Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil, monarch over pain.

CASWELL IS NOT EXPECTED TO RECOVER

George Caswell, who murdered his wife at Plalstow, on Saturday night, was reported on Monday evening to be in a very weak condition, with but little prospects of living. He is at the County hospital at Trentwood, where he was removed on Sunday afternoon. Monday he was considerably weaker from loss of blood and is now gradually sinking. Caswell was without medical treatment for over an hour after shooting himself and in that time lost a great quantity of blood.

SUGAR PLANTATIONS UNDER WATER

New Roads, La., May 12.—Circling the bluffs of False River, which has served temporarily to check its progress, flood water from the levee break at Terras is today spreading ruin over the towns of the thickly settled country south of here. Plantation that dot the Mississippi bottoms, some of them the largest and richest sugar cane producing fields on the west bank of the Mississippi, are covered by the muddy waves.

A report from Irvinville, 15 miles north of Port Allen, reached here today that the water was 14 feet deep in the town. About 150 persons are said to be marooned there. Lieut. Rogers of the Federal Corps is preparing to send relief to them.

Reports from Grosse Tete and Porterloch state that thieves marooned there are looting stores and residences. One man who had hurried out of the former place with his family, on returning to take care of his property, found everything had been stolen. A number of towns in the flooded area have reported similar occurrences.

The flood situation here has now little change in the last 24 hours. While the water is making little advance, the whole of Pointe Coupee parish, excepting a few strips aggregating 12,000 acres, is inundated and the inhabitants of the dry places are applying for relief, being deprived of their usual means of livelihood.

Only about 100 of the 1500 inhabitants of New Roads have left, and few refugees are now coming through here. The only levee work being done in this section is at Morganza, telegraphic communication with which has been restored. The town suffered severely when the levee broke, some sections being destroyed.

Back-water has begun flowing into the streets of Vidalia, La., and it is considered possible that it will reach a depth of four feet. People there are provided with boats, and will not leave unless the situation becomes worse than is now indicated. Back-water is still rising in

In the parishes of Catahoula, Terrebonne and Concordia, La. The rise is about two inches a day.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

The usual services were held at St. John's church on Sunday. The pastor preached a sermon at the morning service on "The Mystery of the Ascension of Jesus Christ." His text was "Nevertheless I tell you the truth it is expedient for you that I go away for if I do not away the Comforter will not come unto you, but if I depart I will send him unto you." John XVI.

Evening prayer was held in the church with sermon by the pastor. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are Rogation Days and morning prayer will be held at 10:30 a. m. in the chapel and evening prayer with address at 5 p. m.

Thursday being Ascension Day there will be Morning prayer with a celebration of the Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m., and evening prayer with address at 5 p. m.

GOT EVEN WITH NEWLYWEDS

Friends inserted Small "Ad" in Newspaper, and Seekers After Bargains Did the Rest.

Bright dreams of wedded bliss were shattered by a tiny want ad. Instead of a day all by themselves, as they had planned, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Joleen, newlyweds, spent eight strenuous hours receiving strangers, who wanted to buy the brand-new furnishings of their cozy flat at No. 4851 West Van Buren street.

Here is the ad that wrecked their happiness:

FOR SALE—Furniture, entire furnishings of six-room flat; everything new and in first-class condition, including a piano-player; Call Sunday, between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m., at 4851 West Van Buren street. No responsible offer refused.

The Joleens knew nothing about it. They were sorely sorry. The groom was showing his bride the cozy corners of their nest.

"How do you like it, my darling?" he inquired anxiously.

"Oh, Nels, it's just too—"

Mrs. Joleen's reply was interrupted by a hammering at the door.

"Hey! What'll you take fer the piano?" asked a man when the door was opened.

"Don't want to sell it. Good day," said Joleen.

Again he turned to his bride. Again a knock on the door.

"I seen your ad in the paper," said another prospective buyer.

"No, you didn't. I didn't have any ad. I don't want to sell anything. I'm busy. Good day," replied Joleen.

All day long Joleen and his wife answered the bell and knocks at the door and turned away the would-be buyers of furniture and piano-players.

About 6 o'clock in the evening it suddenly dawned upon them that the friends whose rice and old shoes they had dodged by leaving the church where they were married through a side entrance after the ceremony, had persevered in their joking and had won.

The groom grinned sheepishly, then called a taxicab. The only quiet moments the couple had during the day were spent at a downtown hotel.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Nature Student.

"The bat, when winter comes," said a nature student, "folds his long ears against his sides, shuts off his heart, and hanging head down from some black corner of barn or smokehouse, hibernates till spring. In March he begins to wake up."

"Lizards and snakes hibernate underground. Frogs hibernate in the frozen mud at the bottom of their ponds. It's nothing to them that they freeze stiff. A frog so stiff frozen in February that you could break him like a soda cracker will thaw out in a warm March as chipper as you please."

"Rats and mice don't hibernate. They come indoors. They leave their cold fields and sewers and they take up their quarters in our nice, warm steam-heated houses. There it's jolly plenty to eat, no snow, no sleet, no piercing March winds. The winter season makes no difference to the rats and mice, save that, while always marrying and giving in marriage, they marry and give in marriage more than ever in our comfortable houses, rearing, at our expense and on our food, litters that in their vast numbers would content even a rat Roosevelt."

Honest Pharmacist.

That "honesty is the best policy" is an axiom that has not been received with entire favor in France may be inferred from the following: Last November a Paris pharmacist who had made a blunder in a medicine that he had prepared discovered soon after delivering it to an unknown woman that he had put into it a most dangerous poison. He inserted in a number of daily papers a notice warning the unknown customer not to use the medicine. This conscientious publication has had a disagreeable result for the pharmacist. He was hunted out by the police for having delivered a poisonous substance without a physician's prescription. He has just settled by paying a fine of 100 francs.

But the customer had not remained unknown or undiscovered. The police had found her. She had not seen any of the notices the pharmacist had put in the papers. But dowered with an excellent scent she had not used the medicine "because it did not seem quite right."

Oriental Metaphor.

The Oriental speaks naturally in metaphor. Even the children continually use figures of speech which are often poetical and always suggestive. The Washington Star thus quotes Bishop Oldham, a missionary bishop of the Methodist church. He writes from Singapore.

"I wish you could hear some of the expressive phrases of the native boys. I had the other day was describing to me the abominableness of his father."

"Oh, he is content with very little," he said. "Such a very little!" Here he pointed to the ground. "No more than the water in the holes made by a chicken's feet."

"He smiled and resumed: "He eats nothing. A grain or two of rice contents him. You should see him at his meals." "He is like a hound munching flies."

Diplomatic.

"How did you get your wife to forego her desire for that expensive evening gown?"

"Told her it was just the thing a plain woman needed."—Judge.

If You Like a Little Quiet Fun

Ask some pompous person if Grape-Nuts Food helps build the brain.

Chances are you get a withering sneer and a hiss of denunciation.

Then sweetly play with the learned toad,

Ask him to tell you the analysis of brain material and the analysis of Grape-Nuts.

"Don't know? Why, I supposed you based your opinion on exact knowledge instead of pushing out a conclusion like you would a sneeze."

"Well, now your tire is punctured, let's sit down like good friends and repair it."

The bulky materials of brain are water and albumin, but these things cannot bleed without a little worker known as Phosphate of Potash, defined as a "mineral salt."

One authority, Geohegan, shows in his analysis of brain, 5.33 per cent total of mineral salts, over one-half being Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined, (phosphate of Potash) 2.91 per cent.

Beaunis, another authority, shows Phosphoric Acid and Potash (Phosphate of Potash) more than one-half the total mineral salts, being 73.44 per cent in a total of 101.07.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows Potassium and Phosphorus [which join and make Phosphate of Potash] is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell salt, Potassium Phosphate [Phosphate of Potash]. This salt unites with albumin and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor, and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumin and water.

Grape-Nuts contains that element as more than half of all its mineral salts.

Every day's use of brain wears away a little.

Suppose your kind of food does not contain Phosphate of Potash.

How are you going to rebuild today the worn-out parts of yesterday?

And if you don't, why shouldn't nervous prostration and brain-fag result?

Remember, Mind does not work well on a brain that is even partly broken down from lack of nourishment.

It is true that other food besides Grape-Nuts contains varying quantities of Brain food.

Plain wheat and Barley do. But in Grape-Nuts there is a certainty.

And if the elements demanded by Nature, are eaten, the life forces have the needed material to build from.

A healthy brain is important if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. The part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required.

RICHESON'S SANITYGov. Foss Will Have All Reports By Today--Transfer to Death Cell to Be Made.

Boston, May 13.—Dr. L. Vernon Briggs and Dr. Henry R. Stedman, also directed by his excellency to the alienists who have been examining the mental condition of Richeson, called at the Executive Department this afternoon issued a brief note, but not shortly before noon today. Dr. Stedman remained only a few minutes. He told the Governor that he would shortly submit his report on what his report contained. It was the case. Dr. Briggs filed his report persistently rumored, however, that on the case with the Governor at in this report Dr. Briggs does not 1.15. The Governor now awaits the find that Clarence V. T. Richeson is now or has ever been entirely irresponsible. It is further suggested, by those professing to know something about the matter, that there will be no clashing of opinion among the alienists appointed by the Governor.

If it is not proved to the Governor that there is at least a strong doubt as to Richeson's responsibility it is not believed that he will even refer the case to the Executive Council.

The following statement, made by one of the officials in the executive department (this afternoon, and one who had seen the Briggs report, is construed rather against the prisoner, or:

"The Governor has not been trying in any way to save Richeson. There was a situation which he wanted to guard against. If the Governor had not sought the opinions of noted alienists as to the sanity or responsibility of Richeson, it could have been entirely unfortunate if after the execution of the prisoner there should have been published the affidavits gathered together by counsel for Richeson relative to his life history and his lack of responsibility."

It is believed that had Dr. Briggs' report been to the effect that the prisoner was irresponsible absolutely, this statement would scarcely have been made by the official in question.

It is generally conceded that Dr. Briggs will go extensively into the case, that differentiations will be made between partial and total responsibility, and that the life of the prisoner from childhood will be traced.

Dr. Stedman's report is expected this afternoon.

GETTING READY FOR OPENING GAME.

The teams in the Sunset League are to put in a lively week practicing for the opening game next Monday. Last evening the weather prevented any practice, but it is hoped that there will be clear weather the remainder of the week.

All of the teams have been greatly strengthened and some good baseball will be seen. It is pretty hard at this time to get much of a line on the teams, as very few of the line-ups have been given out. A great many new faces will be seen in the league this season.

Bresnahan's Absence From Cardinals Seems to Have Bad Effect on the Team

St. Louis, May 14.—Funny how the absence of one star will affect a ball team! This perhaps was never more clearly demonstrated than in the case of the St. Louis National league club this season. The Cardinals started off well, but then fell down into the cellar. And all this is probably due to the absence of Manager Bresnahan. Roger was out of the game for two weeks, and during that time the Cards lost nine straight. On Bresnahan's return the team not alone won, but played an improved brand of ball. It seems that when Roger is out of the game or away from the club any length of time it plays a listless brand of ball. With the fiery pilot back on the job the Cards will be right there at the finish.

BELATED COLD WAVE COMING.

It Starts in the Canadian Northwest and Will Reach the Atlantic Coast by Tomorrow.

Washington, May 13.—A belated cold wave sweeping down from the Canadian Northwest is causing frost, snow and shivering temperatures to day from Montana and Colorado eastward to Ohio. The cool weather extends south as far as Texas, and by tonight and tomorrow will have reached the Atlantic coast, causing frosts and probably snow in the States along the Canadian border. This morning there were low temperatures with frosts in the Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, and western upper lake regions. The thermometer registered freezing at many places in the northwest and central Rocky Mountain region, and there was snow in Colorado and Utah, Utah, Utah. The forces of the cold wave soon will expend itself, weather experts said today, but temperatures will be low and there will be frosts tonight in the upper lake and western lower lake regions, the Ohio Valley and the mountain districts from Pennsylvania to North Carolina.

HOUSE-FLIES AND DISEASE.

The house-fly stands convicted as a disseminator of disease and a carrier of contagion. Ever since the investigation of the spread of typhoid fever in the United States military camps during the Spanish War of 1898, the evidence has been accumulating, until today there is no escape from the charges against this tantalizing insect. Every far-reaching probe into sanitary problems is liable to disclose conditions hitherto quite unsuspected, and the indictments already brought against the house-fly during the past few years charge responsibility for a long catalogue of infections, including cholera and various forms of dysentery, diphtheria, erysipelas, contagious ophthalmia, cerebrospinal meningitis, anthrax and possibly small-pox, in addition to typhoid fever.

Whether all of these charges will stand in the light of scientific investigation remains to be seen. It is important, not so much in justice to the accused insect as because of the hygienic and preventive measures which are dependent thereon, that the questions here raised be authoritatively settled. In the case of typhoid, the evidence appears to be complete.

Dr. Torrey, of the Loomis Laboratory of New York, has attempted to supply facts on this question. He has examined the flies caught in the densely populated parts of New York City during a number of months. Both the bacteria occurring in the intestine and those from the surface of the insects were investigated. The flies examined in April and early in June were comparatively free from dangerous bacteria. As the summer season advanced high bacterial counts began to appear and also an abrupt change in the character of the bacteria. The record counts came at the end of the two weeks of excessive heat in July.

Some idea of the number of organisms that a single insect may carry 4,000,000 for the surface contamination and 16,000 to 25,000,000 for the intestinal bacterial contents. Most of the bacteria found were comparatively harmless. This investigation, however, was carried on in the crowded city, where sewers would naturally carry off all of the most dangerous infective matter. The Journal of the American Medical Association says that the house-fly is an "undesirable citizen" in any event, so that the war of extermination already begun against it in many quarters deserves encouragement and support.

Rockingham County after a long period of quietness, is again the scene of a cold blooded and deliberately planned murder and attempted suicide. It seems a pity that Caswell did not take better aim when he attempted to take his own life.

The Rochester Herald says the season is rather young, but we notice that canoists are already beginning to change seats.

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS.

The wheat is growing faster than the Chicago crop killers can destroy it. Nature has such a provoking way of making even smart men look silly.

The quick rescuing of the people on board the Titanic is a fresh demonstration of how much the wireless is doing to minimize the terrors of the seas.

In the good old days you could see your opponent's hand at election for a postage stamp, but now he takes some very fat coupons merely for the vote.

Few persons can be persuaded to hang out food for the birds in winter, but almost anyone will start a garden and then resent it to the insect pests for their sole benefit.

The old maxim about wealth adding to bring happiness receives further endorsement in the criticisms of will of the late John Jacob Astor.

Before inquiring whether Theodore Roosevelt will vote it might be reasonable to ask whether he has not already done so.

Voting in a national convention is liable to increase rapidly in interest after the first one or two ballots.

The Taft-Roosevelt duel is distinguished by some fierce encounters of seconds, as well as principals.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS.

More About the Suffragette Parade.

I was among the people who witnessed the recent parade of the school children and I must say that on that occasion I was treated to the surprise of my life. At the time the children were forming near the play house I stood watching the movements of those in charge and was close enough, not only to observe everything, but to hear what was said. Just previous to time of starting I noticed one of the women, who had been classed as one of the original promoters of this suffragette movement approach a little boy, grab him by the shoulder at the same time exclaim "you get out of here, we don't want any Catholics in this parade." The little child innocently stepped one side. Now, Mr. Editor, I was compelled to believe that bigotry is not entirely wiped out in this good old city and the exhibition came from a woman whom I thought knew better even if she cherished these narrow minded ideas. I am in a position to know that no better boy could be found in the ranks of the school children on that occasion, and that Portsmouth has no better residents than the parents of the child in question. Personally I cannot understand why the Catholic population should show any anxiety to have their children affiliated with anything of this kind. In the future I shall exercise my efforts among the people of this faith in appealing to them to prohibit their children from taking part in anything concerning woman suffrage or to associate with any affair where women of this type have any authority. The days of this bitter aversion has long passed in the minds of the leading people of this country, but like this woman, there are some who do not know it and cannot help expressing their repugnance toward a class of people who have been marked for their loyalty to this glorious country.

A VALUABLE BOOK.

The New England Inter Collegiate A. A. Handbook published in the Spalding Athletic Library, has just made its appearance.

It contains the Association records, records of field day meetings from 1887 to date, Constitution and By Laws of the New England Inter-Collegiate A. A., a list of the officers and members of the Association, Track and Field Rules, Cross country rules, etc.

It is a very valuable little book, and one that the officials and members of the various organizations of the New England Inter Collegiate A. A. should not be without.

It will be sent to any address in the United States or Canada, postpaid, by the American Sports Publishing Company, 21 Warren Street, New York City upon receipt of ten cents.

Idle Coal Mine In the Anthracite Region and Type of State Police That Guards Property.

Fortunately for all concerned there has been comparatively little serious trouble in the anthracite region since the closing of the mines on April 1. What rioting has occurred was participated in chiefly by the foreigners among the miners. These disturbances have been quieted by the local police where possible and by the state constabulary in cases where the local authorities were insufficient to cope with the rioters.

GREENLAND

News Notes From Our Neighboring Town.

Mrs. Charles H. Brackett and daughters, the Misses Edith and Constance, left for Boston on Sunday to remain with relatives in that vicinity until Tuesday.

The funeral services of Mrs. Frances Staples were begun on Sunday at her late home with a prayer by Rev. Edward Robie, D. D., and further service at the church in Newington where she had lived for many years. She had been a long time sufferer but bore it all with cheerful, uncomplaining fortitude, interment was at Newington.

Preparation is being made by the Congregational Sunday school for some observance of Children's Day which will occur early in June.

Miss Florence Lord may not return to her school in Uxbridge, Mass., on account of the serious illness of her grandfather, Mr. John O. Lord. She arrived home early last week, having put a substitute in charge of her school.

Another meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at the town hall in the interests of the disorganized street railway. The citizens are anxious to adopt some means for its restoration and have shown great interest in it.

Rev. Dr. Norman E. Richardson and family left Boston last week en route for Minneapolis to attend the session of the general conference of the Methodist churches now in session in that city.

The entertainment given last Friday evening at the town hall by the local minstrel association, had an audience that completely filled the hall. A large number from Newington and Stratham were present. The entire program has been highly commended. The applause was most generous some members receiving several recalls. The vocal and instrumental musical selections were finely rendered, the jokes bright and easily grasped by the audience. Each one deserves special mention and space will not permit. Dancing followed the program and ice cream was on sale.

Mrs. E. T. Wentworth was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wentworth on Sunday. Mr. Wentworth has not yet returned from Boston where he is receiving treatment for cataracts in the eyes.

Mr. F. Moody has returned to the office of Junior at the town hall, which he has occupied before.

Mrs. Clara Bennett and Mr. Harold O. Bennett were visitors to Newmarket on Sunday.

Mother's Day was observed by the Congregational Sunday School on Sunday. Decorations of wild flowers, pussy willow sprays and carnation plinks were prettily arranged by Miss Dorothy Odell and the exercises were interesting and appropriate.

Mrs. James M. Sheldon of Portsmouth was the guest of relatives in town on the Sabbath.

It is reported that the Messrs. Stephen H. and Edward Weeks are to purchase an auto.

Mr. Edward W. Holmes has recently taken a trip to Fremont in his auto.

ELIOT ECHOES

A. B. Cole, Esq., has returned from a business trip to New York.

Mrs. Ellen Gould has been visiting friends in Massachusetts the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barnaby and baby daughter of Colorado have been the guests of her mother for a fortnight.

Mrs. Charles McNeill was the week end guest of her parents.

Mrs. H. H. Cole returned Monday from a visit to her cousin, Mrs. J. H. Edwards of Sanbornville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Dixon are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

The tulip bed in the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Dixon is now in full bloom and shows a variety of colors which seldom fails to attract the eye of the passerby.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bridges announced the birth of a son.

OBSEQUES.

Edward H. Marden.

The funeral of Edward H. Marden was held at 2:30 Monday from the home of his mother, Mrs. C. C. Williams on Austin street. Rev. L. L. Gauthier officiating. Mrs. Oswald sang "Lead Kindly Light" with Mrs. E. T. Wentworth as a guest. Klumpke accompanying on the piano. The bearers were Mr. Howard Grover, Roger Outwaite, Walter Rand and Francis Hersey. Interment was in Harmony Grove cemetery under the direction of H. W. Nickerson.

PERSONALS

C. D. O'Leary of St. Albans, Vt., was a visitor here today.

Henry E. Smith of Middletown, Ct., is passing a few days in this city. Samuel Gryznish, the well known Boston cigar manufacturer, was here today on business.

Mrs. H. E. Hovey and Miss Hovey of State street returned on Monday from a visit with the former's daughter in Winchester Mass.

Captain Charles Carleton Marsh, commander of the U. S. S. North Carolina, and wife have now taken the Benedict house on Middle street for the summer. Mrs. Evans, wife of the late Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, U. S. N., the mother of Mrs. Marsh, will pass the season with her daughter.

CR-111

SUFFRAGE NOTES.

FACTS ABOUT WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

Over a million women in the United States have full political rights.

In most states of the Union about sixty to sixty-five per cent of the men vote.

In Colorado seventy-five per cent, in Wyoming ninety per cent of the women vote. At the first election in Los Angeles, after the women of California were enfranchised, practically the entire adult population of the city voted.

In New Zealand at the first election after the enfranchisement of women in 1893, eighty-five per cent of the women voted and sixty-nine per cent of the men. At later elections in New Zealand the vote of the men steadily rose until in 1908 eighty-one per cent of the men voted.

In Wyoming, where women have enjoyed the longest, divorce is only one-eighth as great as in similar states where women do not vote.

In New Zealand divorce has decreased seventy-seven per cent and crime has decreased fifty-five per cent since women began to vote.

In letters presented to the Chicago charter convention in October, 1906, the one hundred and forty mayors of cities in the states, where women voted in city elections, were unanimous in agreeing, (1) that the women do vote in large numbers, in many places ninety to ninety-five per cent; (2) that the women are better spirited and take an intelligent interest in public affairs; (3) that the vote of respectable women is a negligible factor.

Twenty thousand men and women marched through the streets of New York City on May 4 to express their opinion so that some of the survivors have not the appearance of age which one would suspect without investigation, conviction and purpose that all the women of this country should be enfranchised. Yet this number is but one-eighth as great as in similar states where women do not vote.

CHAMP CLARK TO GET DELEGATION

Democratic State and District Conventions To Be Held Today--All Clark Sentiment.

The Democratic state convention and the conventions of the first and second congressional districts, will be held in Concord today. The delegates were addressed last night, the "night before," by United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and Congressman James M. Curley of Boston, both pronounced supporters of Champ Clark, and they struck the keynote which will carry the convention for the speaker of the national house of representatives.

Public sentiment within the Democratic party is apparently largely for Clark, and it is observed that his followers are more aggressive. In fact, it is in the air that they will insist upon an instructed delegation and not trust to the election of men who have been known to be supporters of some other candidate carrying out the wishes of the majority. Uninstructed. The Clark men do not appear to care so much as to the personnel of the men to be selected to the Baltimore convention as they go about making it certain that Clark gets the delegation.

There are a large number of candidates and at this writing the only man who appears to be certain of being elected is John W. Willis of Manchester, who made his fight in the Manchester primaries and won handsomely. Mr. Willis is a pronounced Clark man, and in taking this stand he obeys the will of a large majority in his party. Alderman Maurice Watson, who ran against him in the early ward primaries in Manchester, is also a Clark man.

In the list of aspirants to go to the Baltimore convention and among those mentioned is this honor appear the names of Hon. Oliver E. Branch, Hon. Eugene E. Reed, and John W. Willis of Manchester, Hon. Clarence E. Carr of Andover, True L. Norris, and John H. Dowd of Portsmouth, Hon. James F. Brennan of Peterborough, Henry T. LeDoux, the Hon. J. J. Doyle, Mayor William H. Barry, and Alvin J. Lucier of Nashua, Mayor Charles J. French, David E. Murphy, and Edward Gallagher of Concord, John B. Jameson of Antrim, Richard M. Scammon of Stratham, Paul Dyer of Laconia, James O. Gerry of Madison, Joseph Madden and George H. Eames of Keene, Matthew Ryan and Daniel J. Dailey of Berlin, Dr. George W. McGregor of Lancaster, Frank O. Chellis of Newport, Raymond B. Stevens of Landaff, and E. W. Townsend of Salmon Falls.

Opposition has developed to the sending of Messrs. Reed, LeDoux, and Jameson on the ground that all three are from one county, which would leave the remaining nine counties of the state to be represented by but a single delegate-at-large. Ex-Mayor Samuel D. Peck of Rochester is expected to preside over the deliberations of the state convention.

NO CASCARET USER EVER HAS HEADACHE

A 10-Cent Box Will Keep Your Liver
Stomach and Bowels Clean, Pure and Fresh for Months

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter lodged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system, is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means inside cleanliness and a clear head for months. Ask any of the millions of Cascaret users if they ever have headache.

SNAKE CHARMERS OF OLD

Homer and Virgil Mention Them and Ancient Tablets Show the Tamed Serpents.

Snake taming is mentioned by Virgil, and Homer refers to the snake owned and specially favored by Ajax. That the Macedonians were on intimate terms with reptiles is shown by tablets bearing images of women feeding serpents. Other tablets show serpents twining around columns in the temple of Hercules, where they were placed by people in token of gratitude to the god.

The chariots of Minerva and Ceres were drawn by snakes and snakes guarded the altars of many of the gods. On a fragment of a Pompeian fresco a serpent is depicted coiled in a tree on a stretcher borne by two slaves.

The guardian serpent was the good fairy of the antique home and the watchful guard of the family honor. Even at the present time the Mexican peasants flock to Cocula from all the country round about to keep the feast day of St. Dominic, the saint who conferred on man the power to tame serpents. On St. Dominic's day snake-charmers appear in Cocula bearingadders and other reptiles. In Umbria the snake is supposed to possess the power of working miracles.—Harper's Weekly.

A COLLEGE GIRL

Fine Photo Play Program at Music Hall for Tonight

The picture program at Music Hall Monday evening included "A College Girl," which pictured the life of a girl who leaves college upon the death of her mother to take care of her little brother and sister. All goes well for a year or two when the little boy is taken sick and the call is sent to their old physician. The latter is away and his office is in charge of a young doctor who has been desirous of making the girl's acquaintance. Together the young man and girl work to save the boy's life and are successful. There are many interesting scenes pictured and the story throughout is one of vital interest.

Other pictures include "Brave Heart's Hidden Love," an interesting Indian love story. "Brave, Brave, Brave," an interesting photo play of life on a western ranch, showing some of the jokes that originated when a pretty young girl pays a visit to the ranch as well as some of the means that are resorted to to win her esteem.

"Fighting Dan McCool," and "Wanted—A Baby," are also both good photo plays.

No ride has been found in New England that abounds more in beauty and good roads than the one from Portsmouth to Hampton Beach via the Ocean boulevard for five miles. The old state roads made ideal travelling and the surf breezes are refreshing.—Dover News.

The Swine or The Flower?

Ah me! I saw a huge and loathsome sty, wherein a drove of wallowing swine were barred, whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye; Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of life!" I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first One glistening mass of roses pure and white. With dewy buds 'mid dark green foliage nursed; And, as I lingered o'er the lovely sight, The summer breeze, that cooled that Southern scene, Whispered, "Behold the source of COT-TOLENE!"

THE NAVY TO CONTROL WIRELESS ON PANAMA

Washington, May 13.—According to information received from the Canal Zone, the United States Government has planned to spend $1,000,000 for wireless equipment at the Isthmus of Panama and to put all wireless in the Canal Zone under the absolute control of the United States Navy.

Arrangements will be made with the Republic of Panama to prevent any private or commercial wireless companies from establishing stations in that country. This will give the Government control of all wireless at the Isthmus, with practically no chance of interference, and will permit a perfect system of wireless communication for a distance of three thousand miles.

An exceptionally fine, high-powered station will be erected at Caiman Junction, near the old village of San Pablo, in the District of Gorgona, which is about midway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The site is 110 feet above the normal level of the proposed Gatun Lake, and with ease the operators will be able to communicate with the stations of the navy yards at Brooklyn, Guantanamo, Cuba; Washington and Charleston, Mass. It is proposed to spend part of the $1,000,000 for the construction of high-powered stations on the coast of California, at Hawaii, American Samoa and on the island of Guam, in the Philippines.

WORLD'S NEW 7 WONDERS.

Cornell's School of Chemistry Names Wireless First.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 13.—The faculty, graduates and seniors in the chemistry's seminary at Cornell University have selected seven wonders of the world at the request of a scientific magazine which sent a list of fifty-seven wonders of modern times and asked for a selection of the seven greatest. Prof. L. M. Dennis, head of the department, submitted the following:

"Wireless, synthetic chemistry, radium, radioactivity, aeroplanes, Panama Canal, telephone."

CAUSES OF APOPLEXY

PRIMARILY RECOGNIZED AS ACCOMPANIMENT OF OLD AGE.

Undue Worry, Even in Those of Comparatively Youthful Years, Will Also Induce Dreaded Malady—Victims Sometimes Recover.

The word "apoplexy" generally means a sudden paralysis caused by the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain; it is popularly called a "stroke." It is a result of a softening of the arteries that often follows primary hardening or arteriosclerosis.

The disease is a common accompaniment of old age, so common indeed that it is regarded by many as the one characteristic senile change.

It is not confined to old age, however, for many comparatively young men who have gone too fast, and too far in the pursuit of wealth or who have met with reverses and have worried unduly over them have hardened arteries and are killed or disabled by apoplexy.

In their hardened blood vessels there may be softening spots which, bulged by the hydraulic pressure of the blood, form little aneurisms. A little extra strain on the vessels, caused by some violent emotion or the lifting of a heavy weight or running to catch a train may then rupture one or more of these little aneurisms and so let the blood pour into the brain tissue.

If the blood escapes rapidly and in large amount it causes immediate loss of consciousness and paralysis; if the blood escapes gradually, and in small amount it causes either severe headache and tingling and numbness in one or more of the limbs, or progressive loss of power, gradual dulling of the mental faculties and ultimate unconsciousness.

Apoplexy is not always fatal; indeed complete recovery without any paralysis sometimes occurs. The sufferer's immediate fate is commonly decided in two or three days—either he dies without regaining consciousness or his mental faculties gradually return. He is then seen to be paralyzed in either one arm or in one leg, or in one side of the face, or in all three.

In less serious cases the paralysis lessens, the facial expression becomes normal, even when the paralysis is permanent there is almost always more or less improvement for some weeks after the stroke.

Apoplexy can be treated only by the physician, but those who fear an attack can do much to avert it. Quiet and calm should for them be the rule of life. They should never make any severe muscular effort. They should never run for cars or climb stairs quickly. They should avoid hearty meals and the drinking of much fluid, even water, at any one time.—Youth's Companion.

Parrot's Shrieks Start Murder Case.

A large green parrot, supposed to have escaped from the Oceana of the Bermuda line, stopped traffic at Montgomery and Washington streets, Jersey City, and stayed on the job until it had called out the police reserves and the fire apparatus, says the New York Evening World.

Crowds on their way to work were startled to hear loud shrieks coming from an upper floor of the Lincoln Trust company building.

"It's a murder!" said a fat man. "It's a foreign lady," declared the fat man. "Why don't somebody save her?"

Hundreds of people crowded the streets, when Martin Grady, head porter of the trust company, found the bird in a small recess under the eaves.

When a fireman got half way up the ladder the parrot flew away.

Why Clink Glasses?

"What have you got against that man at the corner table?" asked the bartender of the regular customer. "That was a positive insult you handed him a minute ago. You never offered to clink glasses with him."

"What's the use?" said the customer. "He is deaf, and deaf men seldom clink glasses. Why should they? They couldn't hear it. People only clink glasses to satisfy the fifth sense. At any rate that was why the originators of the practice did it, and succeeding generations have perpetuated the custom. In the ordinary process of quaffing a glass of liquor we are inevitably bound to see the stuff, touch it, smell it, and taste it. That leaves the ear alone unsatisfied. So we clink for its gratification."

Outlook Promising.

On Sixth avenue, New York, two young women walked behind her, conversing audibly above the roar of the elevated.

"And how are you liking your husband?" asked one. "Oh, he's steady," returned the other; "he don't drink, he stays home nights, and I kind of think I'm going to like him."

How fortunate! thought the woman.

One of Nature's Noblemen.

"Money don't seem to have spoiled Mr. Winkerson a bit."

"I know it. He's just the same as ever. Last night him and his wife come over to play bridge with my husband and I, and he never does a thing to show that he didn't think folks that hadn't money was just as good as anybody, as long as they was refined." Judge.

LUCKY ACCIDENT FOR MINER

What at First Seemed Adverse Stroke of Fate Turned Out a Caprice of Fortune.

Where hundreds of men are "prospecting" one of them is liable, of course, to stumble upon a ledge that "pans out" in paying gold or silver. That lucky "find" gives birth to a dozen stories about millionaires, who have become "rich beyond the dreams of avarice" by some fortunate accident. The following story is such a one.

A miner named Adams was prospecting in a northwestern state. While trudging along, one hot day, through a gulch, where the sun had a good chance at his back, he suddenly smelled smoke. He glanced quickly in every direction to ascertain the origin of the smoke, but seeing nothing resumed his journey. A moment later the smell returned stronger than ever. A light wreath of vapor curled about his ears and gave him to understand that his haversack was on fire. Like all miners, he carried a large lens for the purpose of examining the specimens of the sand in his pan and the truth flashed upon him. For want of room he had hung the glass on the outside and the rays of the sun had been concentrated on his haversack, which was thus set on fire. As among its contents were 12 or 15 pounds of powder he lost no time in dropping the burden.

The haversack fell between two huge stones, out of sight. Adams reached a safe distance and watched the smoke rising from his worldly possessions. Suddenly there was a deafening report. The ground trembled and Adams dodged behind a huge stone. Rising, he went to the spot to gather up what he could find, when his eyes almost started out of his head at seeing the quartz that had been blown up fairly glittering with gold. His powder had done better on his own account than it had ever done on his, and had literally blown open a gold mine for his benefit. He was made a rich man and named his mine the "Nick o' Time."

The Child's Toys.

Cloaked under a pretense of making the children happy, our sins have been many. In the first place, we have been giving them too many toys and have made the recipients blasé and unappreciative. One at a time is enough. In our secret souls most of us have been conscious of that mistake. In the second place, in our desire to produce something new and wonderful at frequent intervals, something that would do us credit in the eyes of our young admirers, we have been getting the wrong kinds. The imported mechanical toys upon which we have fallen with gusto and played happily ourselves until obliged to hand them over are far better for us, it seems, than for them. They do the work for the child instead of making him do it.

Here we have in a nutshell the main principle underlying the selection of toys. The child's toys should stimulate his imagination and make him work. If he has too many he has nothing left to imagine; if they respond to the magic of a key, he can only stand by and watch.—Martha Cutler, in Harper's Bazar.

Rubbing It In.

Booth Tarkington was talking in Indianapolis about a novelist of the "high-brow" type—one of those half-starved novelists whose reviews are much more remarkable than their sales.

"As this novelist, shabby and cold," said Mr. Tarkington, "was walking in Fifth avenue one wintry afternoon there glided past the magnificent automobile of a publisher who had brought out one of the poor fellow's books at a heavy loss."

"The publisher signaled to his chauffeur, the automobile stopped, and the novelist, in reply to a wave of the millionaire's hand, presented himself at the window of the car humbly."

"The publisher, wrapped in furs, said:

"There's a great manuscript nearly falling out of your hip pocket. If you weren't so well known—"

"Here the publisher removed the superb Havana cigar from his mouth and laughed a loud, scornful laugh. "If you weren't so well known," he repeated, "I guess you'd have had your pocket picked."

To Escape Gold Bricks.

A man or a woman with funds to invest should make it a primary principle to first consult an experienced banking house of established reputation. The first step in the prudent investment of your money is the selection of your banking house. You should choose a banker not only willing but competent to serve you every need—one with the requisite patience and sympathy to study your investment problem from all angles, to make your problem his problem.

Few investors realize that within the past few years there has sprung up a new guild in the banking business, bankers whose business runs well over $100,000,000 annually and whose success is largely due to the faithful and thoughtful attention given each serious inquiry or request for advice. If you can save and command $100 or more each year you can command the best financial brains in America.—Leslie's.

Ignored the Heart Convention. "Did you hear that Mrs. Brown? I have adopted some sort of new belief?" "I'm not at all surprised. I saw her playing bridge last night, and when her partner led spades on a doubtful trump she only smiled."

WANTED CARTOON OF ROOSEVELT IN RECORD

Washington, May 13.—Col. Roosevelt was again the subject of a spirited passage in the senate today.

Senator Stone asked to have reproduced in the Congressional Record a cartoon entitled "Saint Roosevelt by Roosevelt" in which the colonel was represented as throttling "Trusts" with one hand and "political bosses" with the other.

"I request that the cartoon be revised," said Senator Stone, "and instead of the impersonal trusts I would place McCormick of the Harvester Trust in one hand and Perkins of the Steel Trust in the other, and then I would have him pictured with both feet planted on the prostrate form of Munsey."

Senator Burnham in charge of the agricultural bill insisted that Mr. Stone's remarks had nothing to do with the subject.

"We are considering the bureau of animal industry and may well give some attention to human industry," interjected Senator Gallinger. The matter then dropped.

EDISONIAN THEATRE

Freeman's Hall

To our Patrons:—

We take pardonable pride in calling your special attention to our forthcoming release of the first run, independent pictures. An ambitious undertaking in moving pictures, but the result is highly satisfactory. Moving picture critics, the exacting kind, pronounce these pictures as superb and magnificent, and we will offer to our patrons the best of picked subjects. The pictures you will see in the future are subjects especially selected by Mr. W. E. Greene and run in his Portland house. The patrons, who always attend this popular house are strong in their praise of the cleanliness, sanitary and well ventilated conditions that exist in this theatre at all times, and with the pictures, accompanied by music which is arranged to fit into every situation of the subject by our orchestra, places this house in a class by itself.

The features for Monday and Tuesday include "False to Both." This story relates how two young men left the east for the west, on the chance of returning with sufficient money to marry the girl they each loved, each swain had his sweet hearts photograph but unknown to the other the photograph was of the same girl, but in it and it developed that the girl married a third party.

"A Cure for Stage Fever," an interesting comedy showing how a young society lady is cured of the stage.

"The Witch's Necklace," a great drama.

"A Kind Hearted Brother" drama.

"Aunt Aurora," comedy.

By special request "Moonlight Bay" will be illustrated the first three days of this week. Also "I Was a Millionaire." Come and see the new faces in the feature pictures of this week's offering.

R refinement and courtesy to all patrons.

Comfort and safety is the rule.

TAKE TIME TO ENJOY

LITTLE SENSE IN OVERWORKING TO THE BREAKING POINT.

Virtue That Is Excellent, In Moderation, Can Be Transformed Into a Vice—How One Woman Con-serves Her Strength.

"She's making big money," said a man to me the other day, speaking of a mutual acquaintance, a woman who, beside editing a magazine, had recently undertaken to write a series of articles that would require a lot of research, "but what she needs is to learn to spend some of it. What's the good of money in the bank to a dead person. She is overworking herself to the breaking point."

The savings bank habit is a mighty good one, but you don't want to let it get the best of you. You can overdo prudence just as you can anything. A virtue that grows to be an obsession cannot be distinguished from a vice.

There are times when you ought to be extravagant, ought to give yourself "the best there is," and think it none too good. We all know what it is to feel stale. If we realized that severe nervous breakdowns often start with that same "stale" feeling we might learn to regard it more seriously than we do.

When you feel "all tuckered out" cash a check at the bank and run down to Atlantic City for a couple of days. They'll do you more good than a month after the doctor has ordered a rest. One woman I know takes four days every month to play in, going off Wednesday night and returning Monday morning.

As she doesn't take the half holiday on the other Saturdays to which she is entitled, you see she doesn't really lose much time. She leaves town either alone or with a chum who won't expect her to be "sociable," goes to the sea or the hills or to some other city, puts up at a simple hotel where the food is good, and just plays. You would never think, if you met her on one of these jaunts, that she knew what work was. She always takes a good book with her, one of the "old fellows," as she calls them, and drops the magazines and papers, clearing her mind of everything in the least like her usual routine. One in a while she goes to visit a friend, but as a rule she prefers the greater freedom of a hotel. And she comes back to her work a woman refreshed and radiant, thoroughly convinced that her time and money both have been well spent.

Many of us think we can't do things because we haven't tried. Perhaps few of us can arrange to pool our holidays and have to do the best we can with those that come along in the regular course. But we ought to give ourselves a real treat once in a while, for there is no greater tonic in the world than enjoyment. You don't always need to spend money for it—a lot of enjoyment comes as free as sunlight, a child's laugh or a good walk. But it is better to spend a little money foolishly, or what seems foolishly, on oneself every now and then, instead of to be forever saving up for that "rainy day" we live in such terror of meeting. You can't beat health, serenity and a growing fund of pleasant memories.—Hildegard Hawthorne.

One on the Proofroom.

There are few words in the unabridged dictionary that have not at some time invaded the proofroom of this office, but one came in the other day, an utter stranger. It was in the body of an astronomical article.

"This beats me," said proofreader No. 1 to the copyholder. "Let's see the copy."

There it was written in with a heavy hand in the blackest of black ink.

"It's got more legs than a spider," said the proofreader. Only six letters in the word, and five of 'em below the line.

There it was syzygy—three of the six letters are y's.

"What does the blooming word mean?" asked the copyholder. The proofreader for the first time in many moons declined to give an opinion. The dictionary was consulted. "Syzygy—the point of an orbit, as of the moon or a planet at which it is in conjunction or opposition." The word is pronounced siz-gee.

"Sounds like the cracker to a college yell," said the proofreader as he closed the book.

What Caused the Cheering.

Secretary Knox's experience with the Central American crowd was not, as he supposed, cheering for him, but applauding a local idol in his party, recalls the story told by a sportsman who went fishing last summer on the Pecos river.

Leaving the train at Glorietta, he took a wagon for Windsor's ranch. It was a long, hard pull for 27 miles, and the sportsman looked eagerly for the resort, long before it came into view. Finally the wagon rounded a point, and Windsor's ranch was revealed below. Almost as soon as it appeared the wagon in turn was discovered from the ranch. Some 25 or 30 men boiled out of the cabins, and a tremendous cheer arose in the valley.

The sportsman was at once puzzled and flattered.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed, "is that for me?"

The driver clapped on the brakes and reared back on the lines.

"For you?" he laughed. "Not on your life. I'm bringin' the boys ten gallons of whisky!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PSYCHOLOGY OF DRESSING UP

Fancy Dress Balls Supply Cravings of Ignored Nature, According to Observer.

The extraordinary vogue of the fancy dress ball of late years—especially when it is one of monster dimensions—is one of the straws which show which way the wind of national character is blowing.

For it is not only the young and curly who through these gay scenes, but serious people of middle age, of exalted position, and even of advanced years.

I fancy this rage for "dressing up" appeals to something profound and instinctive in human nature. If you look with observant eyes at the travestied figures around you, you will discover that the dress chosen is symbolic of a secret aspiration, a thwarted desire, an unacknowledged ambition.

Thus, the young man who must sit on an office stool year in, year out, will brazen it as a pirate, or in the sanctest of cavalry uniforms.

The British matron will put on the bouffants and languors of the Travite, or the striped stockings and mob cap of a sonnette.

So, also, you shall see ladies of high degree scantily attired as bacchantes, and leading Dionysian dances, while the soldier or lawyer will impersonate Pierrot, and girls of flighty manners in private life appear, with downcast lids, as Puritans or nuns.

Perhaps some such outlet for poor human nature, which is squeezed into grooves for which it is often ill fitted, is a kind of safety valve which ought to be encouraged.

Nature is said to take terrible revenge on those who steadily ignore her. The putting on of motley is an innocent form of occasionally obeying her behests.—London Sketch.

ACT NOT ON THE PROGRAM

Dog's Instinct True, Even Though Scene He Witnessed Was of Make-Believe Order.

"Hereafter," said a New York columnist, "when I attend a moving picture show, I will take pains to see that my collic Jack is securely fastened at home. The other evening Jack contrived to get past the ticket-taker and followed me to my seat. He was quiet and interested with the various scenes until a highway robbery was thrown upon the screen. Then he became restless and began to whine.

"When the actors were seen creeping near their intended victim he growled. I clutched his collar, but when the man was actually attacked Jack barked and, breaking away from me, dashed up the aisle, bounded over the orchestra railing and did his best to spring upon the pictured robber. He wanted to tear them to pieces. I don't know what he would have succeeded in doing if there had been no interference. Somebody had presence of mind to turn on the lights. That made the pictures fade and Jack, still growling, rejoined me where I was sitting. Jack has no use for robbers, and a pictured one is just as bad to him as the reality."

Without the Stork.

There are no storks in the dense forests of Dutch Guiana, where live simple, harmless Indians. The poor Indian mother goes out of her home, a simple shelter from rain raised on a few sticks, and broods in the forest. She soon comes back, not alone as she went out, but with a little baby boy or girl, sometimes twins. Old Mr. Indian smiles quietly when he first sees the little one and from some superstition he believes he must not work and kill game for several weeks. So he lies in his hammock and sometimes holds the little one as the other Indians come up and tell him how happy he ought to be as the father of the fine baby. In two or three days the little one is swung in a hammock and carried at its mother's breast while she works the cassava fields. Baby seldom or never cries and is not one tenth as much trouble as an American baby.

Interest in Collections.

It is quite the old manner of ment to rock to sales of rare books, furniture or pictures, even when they have no intention of buying. For each of these collections is the result of a lifetime of study, and the opportunity to see them as a whole cannot recur again, while individually the pieces, passing into private hands, may be lost to the public for years. For this reason young girls are sent with their governesses to see the treasures that will soon be scattered far and wide, and even whole classes from fashionable schools are taken for morning views. Such visits, naturally, do more for the artistic education of these fortunate young folk than weeks of lecturing and photographs.

Modern Miracle.

The patient was a man 77 years old, with a catarrh of eight years' standing. While at work in his garden one day the patient had occasion to rub his right eye several times on account of sweat which had trickled into it. He awoke next morning to find that the sight of his right eye was restored. His wife and neighbors also remarked that his eye no longer looked gray. On examination by a doctor five days later nothing was to be seen of the lens till the patient looked down, when it was seen as a gray, shining body floating in the vitreous humor at the bottom of the eye, where it moved with the movements of the eye.—The Lancet.

Herodotus a Muckraker.

Such as believe the tales of the Egyptians are free to accept them for history. For my own part, I propose to myself throughout my whole work faithfully to record the traditions of the several nations. The Egyptians maintain that Ceres and Bacchus preside in the realms below. They were also the first to broach the opinion that the soul of man is immortal, and that when the body dies it enters into the form of an animal which is born at the moment, thence passing on from one animal into another until it has circled through the forms of all the creatures which tenant the earth, the water and the air; after which it enters again a human frame, and is born anew. The whole period of the transmigration is (they say) three thousand years. There are Greek writers—some of an earlier, some of a later date—who have borrowed this doctrine from the Egyptians and put it forward as their own. I could mention their names, but I abstain from doing so.—Herodotus.

Horse Came Back.

A. H. Whitman, a Los Angeles (Cal.) jeweler, says that a cat may come back, also a horse. Whitman owned a horse for several years, and recently deciding that the animal had outlived its usefulness, he gave a young man $5 to take the equine into the country and shoot it.

He then decided that he must have a new steed, so inserted an advertisement in the newspapers. Among several answers, one especially appealed to him.

It stated that the writer possessed a gentle family horse, and gave a description which sounded good to the jeweler.

Accordingly, he journeyed to China, from which town the letter came, looked over the horse, and bought it. When he got the animal home he noticed something familiar in its actions, and upon closely examining the animal, found it to be the one he had paid to have shot.

Footpaths on Road to Peace.

To be glad of life, because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars; to be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness, and to fear nothing except cowardice; to be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts; to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners; to think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends and every day of Christ; and to spend as much time as you can with body and with spirit. In God's out-of-doors—these are little guideposts on the footpath of peace.—Henry Van Dyke.

WELCOME THE "GRAD"

SWEET COLLEGIANS PROMISE DOMESTIC REVOLUTION.

New Method of Dish-Washing May Be Only the Beginning of Better Things—Vast Field for Her Ingenuity Is Before Her.

"There's something new under the sun, after all," remarked the troubled tourist. "Here's a woman college graduate who says the college woman can devise new methods of washing the dishes."

If that's the case, then she's got the helpful husband beaten a mile, for up to the time of this new discovery he has had the record for new methods of dish-washing by the simple expedient of turning the hose on them. It was a quick and fairly efficacious way of disposing of a whole tubful of dishes at one fell swoop and bade fair to revolutionize house-keeping methods. It was invented, I think, by a man whose wife left him to tend the flat while she took a two weeks' vacation. Now, however, if the college woman is out inventing new dish-washing methods, mere man will have to sidestep. His occupation's gone. I don't know what these new dish-washing methods may be, but my advice to bachelors is to put in their applications at once to all senior classes in women's colleges and try to get a wife and a new dish-washing method at one and the same time.

As a dish juggler the sweet girl graduate ought to lead the world. "It seems to me that the college woman of today is going in the domestic field. It looks like a soft thing for her husband. He won't have to settle a single dispute. All he'll settle will be the bills. The high cost of living needn't worry him in the least. Let his college wife settle that. All he'll have to do is to worry if he is laid up and can't attend to his job. She'll go down to the office and settle the business for him. She'll probably settle the blonde stenographer first, and attend to the details later.

I see that up in York state a mail carrier was unable to deliver his letters and his wife went out and covered his district for him. There you have it. That's just what the new dish-washing college graduate wife is going to do—because she can settle everything.

"If she has any doubt about about election time that he isn't going to vote the right way, she can promptly lock him up and go out and vote for him. If she thinks he's not up to his usual form at cards she can keep him at home and go take his place at the club Saturday night.

"If there's to be any sitting up with a sick friend she can do it for him, and spare him the long visit. I painted this happy future to a cynical bachelor friend of mine and the only comment I could get him to make was 'Wake up, you're in Boston.'—Houghton Press.

Saw Point of Resemblance.

Rev. Denis O'Donoghue, whom every one in Indianapolis knows and loves, and who is now bishop of the diocese of Louisville, is as fond of telling a joke on himself as he is of springing one on some one else.

The bishop is nearly bald and when he is traveling and desires to remove his headgear he usually pulls on a silk skull cap. The bishop's friends tell of a little train incident that happened to him while traveling between Indianapolis and Chicago.

Just behind the bishop sat a traveling man who appeared to be deeply interested in his reverence. However, he did not speak to the bishop until the train began to slow up at a small station. The traveler was to alight at this station. Gathering his grips he started for the door. Then he turned back and stopped at Bishop O'Donoghue's seat.

"Pardon me," he said, with an anxious countenance, "but aren't you Bill Nye?"

Bishop O'Donoghue, who was always an admirer of the famous humorist, thought the joke was too good to keep and promptly told it on himself.

New Yorker's Design Accepted.

The Perry Memorial commission has approved the design of J. H. Friedlander of New York for a permanent memorial at Pull-in-Bay, O., to commemorate the centennial of Perry's victory at Lake Erie, which will be celebrated in 1913. Mr. Friedlander received highest honors in a competition in which fifty-four designs were received, and the award carries with it a contract to supervise the erection of the memorial, upon which $600,000 will be expended. The memorial will be in the form of a Doric column, 320 feet high, with a sculptor's gallery and light at the top. It will stand on a plaza, at one end of which will be a historical museum, while at the other end will be erected a building to symbolize the 100 years of peace which have prevailed between the United States and England.

Couldn't Fool Him.

"Sir," faltered the office boy; "kin I git off to go an' see the hockey game this afternoon?"

The boss looked at him sharply. Then he brought his fist down hard on the desk.

"No!" he shouted, decisively. "You kids try to fool me. You ask to get off to see a hockey game, and the first thing you know you are sneaking away to go to your grandmothers' funerals. No!—You stay right here and work!"

COLD WAVE HERE.

The cold wave which has been sweeping across the country, arrived here shortly after midnight last night. The wind suddenly pulled into the northwest and freshened up, and at one o'clock it was blowing a gale. The temperature at the same time began to take a drop.
